Hack Richard: lol....

Hackshaven Harford: I occasionally program

Hackshaven Harford: :)

Irah Anatine: Are we allowed to film and take pictures?

Irah Anatine: ty:)

Tara5 Oh: what about the policy on requiring Linden names - for many this keeps Second Life in the genre of role playing and they would like the options of other modes, e.g. building on an identity they are already invested in (their own name).

Irah Anatine: I know PL will come to speak about this, but what's your opinion on how business can use SL to optimize procedures and fight the crisis?

Tara5 Oh: the name policy also signals a separation of second life from a future internet networked world where increasingly the Net is about who we are, where we are and what we are doing and no longer about the anonymity of the end to end internet

Byn Petrov: I've never met another Petrov :(

Phelan Corrimal: and all the disfunctionality that implies :-)

DavidBatty Hathaway: Early adopters of technology usually get rewarded for being in there early by being able to register their name. If we can register our real names in future, will ability to register a names go to those who have been in here for years before the newbie accounts?

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'

Maximo Eames: Philip what about collaboration, seamless integration with web 2.0, is LL investing on that?

jcmav wirefly: Philip, yes, the questioner, no

Heidi Swashbuckler: Agree. Can't hear now

Soap Clawtooth: Max, i think it would be more wise for them to invest in the potential for web 3.0 in future.

Metro Troglodite: Doesn't this response focus too much on interoperability and not enough on how firms might use SL to collaborate?

Mitch wagner: Hi,Philip! Is there any work being done on a completely redesigned client for SL? When can we expect to see that?

Tara5 Oh: There is a lot of talk today (on Twitter) about Twitter being replaced an open protocol? <http://bit.ly/13ZyZE> (2/2) should VW protocol discussions engage with these discussions about open protocols for micro blogging that are emerging now?

Phelan Corrimal: Question: is there a way beyond Jira that we can be more engaged in the process of supporting and potentially helping develop more ICT convergences within SL?

Anuschka Ninetails: will we ever see a SL-Lite that is browser enabled rather than have to download a client?

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'

Al Supercharge: QUESTION: Last time I heard Philip talk about opening up the Main grid to teens - does that not HAVE to be accompanied by banning sex / violence or at the least severly partitioning them ?
Irah Anatine: Yes, politicians are being forced to, because they really need to reach citizens today.

Hack Richard: lol

Ygraine Caerndow: Same here...

Irah Anatine: lol

Mitch Wagner: Remembers a perfectly ordinary book I read on a great vacation in 1986.

Byn Petrov: what's this vacation thing?

Soap Clawtooth shrugs. 'Beats me.'

Otto Chin: Byn: Not "what's this 'book' thing?"?

Inga Lenroy: two wks ago.. i cant complain

Deb Quintessa: Over time, with use, might the context become "usual", especially if we don't keep changing the visual appearance of the site

Byn Petrov: mentally going to fiji....

Phelan Corrimal: Vacation: The words holiday or vacation have related meanings in different English-speaking countries and continents, but will usually refer to one of the following activities or events:

A general leave of absence from a regular occupation for rest or recreation

A specific trip or journey for the purposes of recreation / tourism

Official or unofficial observances of religious/national/cultural/other significance, often accompanied by celebrations or festivities (public/religious holiday)

A holiday or vacation trip/break will often be undertaken during specific holiday observances, or be made for specific festivals or celebrations. Certain religious holidays may be of a more somber nature. vacation or holidays are often used as a time to spend with friends or family.

Phelan Corrimal: I thought there was just work and conferences

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.

Longg Weeks: once avatars are more emotive, we can even have better meeting

Chimera Cosmos: ugh!!

Metro Troglodite: Some businesses feel it is not memory of a meeting but actually working together with others on a design that would make a real difference!

DavidBatty Hathaway: Sounds familiar Phelan

Irah Anatine: thank you so much, That was interesting and useful:)

Otto Chin: Second Life client for Kindle?

Chimera Cosmos: staring at phones is even worse than talking on them LOL

Inga Lenroy: hi

Inga Lenroy: I am a newbeehere

Chimera Cosmos: nice! I SO want that for my uni :-)

Longg Weeks: we do that too

Phelan Corrimal: do we assume that is being done with a Mac rather than a PC

Curious George: One subjective, but real obstacle to professionals / business / etc. adopting SL is the heavily gaming and fantasy oriented look; it just does not seem "serious"; so people dismiss it on that superficial basis

Chimera Cosmos: is this being recorded? I want to play back Philip for a bunch of folks heheh

Hack Richard: great idea! please document this meeting room. do a case study of its usage.

Gordo Latzo: it is being recorded

Byn Petrov: would love to hear about that technology Philip Mitch Wagner: kewl! Augmented reality!

Celeste Brimm: Phillip, I've had that webex vs. SL discussion at my university and I'm trying to convince them to just try SL. Any recommendation on how to convince philip linden talk - back chat

 people to come here for collaborations/meetings?
 AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'
 Chimera Cosmos: yay!
 Gordo Latzo: anders wildcat can tell you how to listen to it again
 Chimera Cosmos: so cool
 AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.
 Metro Troglodite: Celeste, if you can do a unique type of collaboration or work, that usually gets people involved.
 Metro Troglodite: There are also lots of examples of profs in different universities teaching in SL
 Acqua Homewood: Does "hiding behind" an avatar embolden people and impact interaction significantly?
 Semaj Susanowa: The whole sexuality issue in SL tends to color business perceptions when it comes to "selling" the idea of using SL professionally
 Ygraine Caerndow: Agree, Semaj Lokifluff Clarity: if you are really that keen on selling SL to businesses then when are you going to change the time to GMT?
 Soap Clawtooth: Hiding behind the internet in general emboldens people in many ways that simply wouldnt be there in RL.
 Byn Petrov: Exactly :)
 Ygraine Caerndow: But if your business is serving kids...
 Curious George: But it does color people
 Chimera Cosmos: right--like your own city--just don't go to that neighborhood!!!!
 Curious George: s perception
 Irah Anatine: there are porn sites. they don't stop business sites:)
 HUDDLES EZ Animator Deluxe v1.2.0: Could not find animation 'MM Model' Intellagirl Tully: How will the SL community adapt and evolve to accomodate more business/enterprise applications without leaving out the social/experimental/casual users? Can the two mix without either community suffering?
 AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1' Chimera Cosmos: Intellagirl: I think they must mix, to the benefit of both--so how do we get there is my question
 HUDDLES EZ Animator Deluxe v1.2.0: Could not find animation 'MM Model'.
 Soap Clawtooth: I think second life just need better press coverage on a business and educational footing.
 Irah Anatine: I think the challenge is really try to convince a "traditional" CEO to sit in front of a computer and become an avatar. I don't mean advance business, but intermedium ones.
 AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.
 Mitch Wagner: In Second Life, no one knows you're not a dog.
 Semaj Susanowa: Media tend to sensationalize SL
 Al Supercharge: but CAMERA POSITION has no " identity"
 Ygraine Caerndow: I' like to see accounts that facilitate content seperation.
 Gordo Latzo: there was a short but good interview with the CEO of Linden Lab on CNBC the other day. you can watch it on any business news website
 Byn Petrov: all technology starts with freaks geeks and entrepreneurs.
 Longg weeks: like Youtube shamblesguru Voom: and don't forget Educationwhich seems to be a growth area
 DanParks Voom: in addition to the SLCC - I believe we need a SL conference that focuses on business and educational applications Chimera Cosmos: I was on an NSF panel and a physicist/prof/educator started to rant about how "those people" actually believe that virtual property has value and can be bought/sold!
 Byn Petrov: education = geeks for me ;)
 Gordo Latzo: huge growth area in education
 Irah Anatine: That will come in time Ygraine Caerndow: How do you leverage your current position with others trying to move into this space
 AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1' Irah Anatine: well, one of the main attractions of SL is that "common people" are here, ready to be "targeted" by the institutions that want to reach them, no?

Theo Outlander: no one remembers that now

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.

Gordo Latzo: common but still ahead of the curve in regards to using new technology

Byn Petrov: not necessarily Irah, there is a consumer component, but there is an internal use component as well

Soap Clawtooth: Theo, LL are playing with the idea of offering webspace with a .sl domain name, i think i read about that somewhere.

Chimera Cosmos: I can see all the avatars--that's a local computer/bandwidth issue

Mitch Wagner: Don't bother pitching. Engage with the people who are interested. The others will come around on their own.

Philip Linden: can you hear me?

Curious George: We use information technology for two things: to interact with other people, and to interact with the world of information, essentially all of which is on the web. While SL and other VW's address the first one extremely well, interface with the informational content of the web is very poor

Philip Linden: hang on.

Chimera Cosmos: yes, all

DanParks Voom: still no sound here

Therese Tammas: /:P

Jay Au: Hello!

Jianna Zerbino: hee hee LOL Ego always works!

Jet Lexenstar: that's so true appealing to the ego!

Mitch Wagner: That's funny, Ygraine. I learned that technique when I launched InforamtionWeek's first web new site in 1995. Had a few people interested, encountered a lot of hostility. Engaged with the interested folks, was pleasant to the others.

Keystone Bouchard is Online

Chimera Cosmos takes notes--preparing presentations for biology faculty for this weekend :-)

Soap Clawtooth: SL's growth is alot like the growth of the Internet. It had been around in a form since the 80's and people weren't really sure about it. They didn't really 'get it' until it took off commercially in the 90's and everyone eventually plugged into it.

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'

Lokifluff Clarity: how do you explain to CEOs who operate everything on GMT that they have to convert to SL time?

Ygraine Caerndow: Get the CEO's kids to use it!

philip linden talk - back chat

LL future development plan and if so then what is in that section for the future in fact is the Dev.Plan transparent/public?

Soap Clawtooth: The teen grid would need a major overhaul for that

Irah Anatine: ty

Mitch Wagner: But students don't currently use Vws.

Philip Linden: true mitch

Ygraine Caerndow: Kids is a subjective term... I'm 40

HUDDLES EZ Animator Deluxe v1.2.0: Could not find animation 'MM Model'.

Chimera Cosmos: they use wow!

Mitch Wagner: I'm 47 Ygraine. Get off my lawn. :)

Irah Anatine: Kids know how to use it. They are born teached to use it:)

Otto Chin: Chimera: I agree ... wow

Chimera Cosmos: they just need to adapt to "grownup" uses

Irah Anatine: It's just a matter of time for them to use SL

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'

Soap Clawtooth: Perhaps the future of SL's verticals requires the conception of separate grids for separate niches. One grid for business, one for gaming, one for education and one as the Main Grid, for general socialism.

Chimera Cosmos: yes, my kids learned in like 2 seconds, but they aren't interested yet VirtualWorldsNews writer: College students may not be using SL, but YoVillage (on Facebook and Myspace) is huge, and younger kids are all about virtual worlds.

Ygraine Caerndow: Higher education will get here. it makes too much sense.

Celeste Brimm: And young kids are in webkinz...

Gordo Latzo: grownup uses...correct. i'm 35 and loved playing madden all through college and after. now, i just don't have the time.

Intellagirl Tully: Soap, i think that would be horrible. the crossover is where the magic happens.

Byn Petrov: I think adoption is reduced by 90% with a tour guide....

Phelan Corrimal: the best way - get the time to flash 12:00 in the upper right so that only a 14 year old can change it

jcnav Wirefly: but some profs are using SL and getting the kids i nthat way

Kita Coage: will you make it easier for european kids to register in the future?

Thinking about the us cell phone issue?

AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.

Mitch Wagner: I see SL as being part of the march larger trend that includes Twittter, the new realtime Facebook News Feed - it's the Realtime Web. Shared group experience at a distance mediated by the Internet.

DanParks Voom: I can hear now!

Hack Richard: audio dropped

Mitch Wagner is distracted by a bright shiny object.

Hack Richard: audio ok

Chimera Cosmos: I showed my daughter (age 26) in like a half hour

Chimera Cosmos: it's better to have a "tutor"

Irah Anatine: Yes, that must become easier. But also, it must become easier for inworld users to help outsiders DavidBatty Hathaway: As long as we dont dumb down in order to appeal to a younger age group, that would be a backward step in my eyes.

Soap Clawtooth: I think the answer to the problem of the 'instantly there' conundrum relies on a better usage of the SL website

DanParks Voom: I couldn't agree more - our orientation is now 10 minutes shamblesguru Voom: mentor!

Ygraine Caerndow: wii style controls?

Al Supercharge: 97 AVs and a server full :)

Irah Anatine: And please, Philip, bring FLASH!;)

Phelan Corrimal: Question: but isn't part of idea of getting kids to use something like this is to sort of reinvent the interface which is more along the lines of the way youger age groups think about virtual worlds / controls

Soap Clawtooth: Offering the ability to just instantly log into categorized events directly from the website

Anuschka Ninetails: browser-enabled version

philip linden talk - back chat

Ygraine Caerndow: Don't!
Chimera Cosmos: Do NOT!
Bevan Whitfield: NO!
Malburns Writer: Yep - Flash can't come soon enough
Gordo Latzo: it will, like all tech, get easier over time
Theo Outlander: Power and convenience are opposites
Chimera Cosmos: it will be easy for the new younger adopters--trust me!
Byn Petrov: don't become lively ;)
Chimera Cosmos: it's just the older folks who think it's hard Theo Outlander: make it easier, we lose our abilities to create Anuschka Ninetails: a "lite" version for the enterprise, don't take away the client
Ygraine Caerndow: The complexity comes with all the things you can do.
Soap Clawtooth: Not a browser enabled version, just more of a transparent view of Second Life from the website itself. Including how to search for things and find various events.
shamblesguru Voom: Question: Is "Education/Educators" (inc. k-12) one of the sections in the LL future development plan and if so then what is in that section for the future in fact is the Dev.Plan transparent/public?
Mitch Wagner: Interfaces like the 3D camera will make SL more accessible. And direct-brain interfaces are coming faster than we think - faster than we might be comfortable with.
AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'
SA Foxtrot: what about MMP games that are Avatar based? Its seems like that technology plus WII will bring more people into this areana.
Soap Clawtooth: Agreed Mitch.
Mitch Wagner: Even something like really smart haptic interfaces can vastly improve the experience. What if you felt a tap on your wrist when someone tried to IM you?
Malburns Writer: 2 cams support for better calibration
AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.
Hack Richard: neat (and scary) idea
Lizard Wirefly: i think it's scary
Anuschka Ninetails: not all enterprises want to download a client to each use Ygraine Caerndow: What about wii functionality?
Ygraine Caerndow: That would be neat!
Light Sequent: Are there any plans to increase the number of groups we can be in?
Mitch Wagner: Don't know if that will really happen - application needs to arrive first.
Soap Clawtooth: The trouble with having a cam in every PC, is you wont overcome people's desire for anonymity in SL.
Ygraine Caerndow: The camera doesn't show you.
Mitch Wagner: Soap, the camera wouldn't undermine anonymity. It'd just make your avatar match your RL gestures.
Ygraine Caerndow: It can help mirror your movements
Chimera Cosmos doesn't like typist to be on camera
Quintessential Sorbet: Have you built models or cases that would concretely demonstrate CEOs how to get return on the investment?
Quintessential Sorbet: if so wher could I find examples?
Quintessential Sorbet: or testimonials?
DavidBatty Hathaway: Question: Will future versions of SL have a facility to prevent grievers setting up serial accounts, cause havoc, then dump the account to set up another and start again?
AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'
Metro Troglodite: I have not found many DETAILED ROI cases
DanParks Voom: Is there any plans for a "desktop sharing" capability so we can broadcast the desktop to a SL screen?
AO BOYS: Could not find animation 'NEWPOSEF5man1'.
DavidBatty Hathaway: I would like that DanParks.
HUDDLES EZ Animator Deluxe v1.2.0: Could not find animation 'MM Model'
Mitch Wagner: would love to walk through SL on my treadmill in RL.
DanParks Voom: I have had several prospective meeting customers request it Ygraine Caerndow: How do you keep an advantage in the VW field?
Quintessential Sorbet: Right Metro....detailed cases would make SL easier to sell
HUDDLES EZ Animator Deluxe v1.2.0: Could not find animation 'MM Model'.
